Excerpt: . . . own observation the driver of the droshky crosses himself as he passes each church, the ordinary man and woman turns from his marketing for a few moments religious exercise in the wayside chapel. Russian churches are famed for their number and their decorations, and they still stand intact, from the great cathedrals of St. Isaac and the Saviour in Moscow down to the smallest shrine. Ikons have not been abolished, they are seen everywhere, in cottages, factories, in the saloon of Trotskys special train. Monday, October 13th. No news had yet arrived concerning the proposed Peace Conference at Dorpat between the Baltic States and the Soviet Government, and I was beginning to fear whether it would be possible to get back to Hel singfors in order to catch the steamer for Hull due to leave on October 2 3rd. A Lettish Red Cross Mission had arrived, and was staying in my house. It comprised three delegates, the Mayor of Libau and two members of the Lettish Diet. It did not take me long to ascertain that this was not a Red Cross Mission, but a secret Peace Mission from Latvia, and the large Red Cross brassards which they wore on their arms were justified only in so far as these gentlemen, like others, were trying to bring about peace in this old world. I arranged to see the British prisoners to-day, and accordingly drove that afternoon to the house in which they were accommodated....
